

Acknowledgements

It takes a village to raise a child and a university to raise a journal. As such, we would like to extend our most sincere thanks to the people that made the 7th edition of The Boolean postgraduate journal possible, providing the postgraduate researchers of University College Cork an avenue to share the incredible work being done at our University. Each year of publication brings with it a community of new and loyal supporters for whom we are truly grateful. We would especially like to express our gratitude to Professor Alan Kelly for his unwavering support of The Boolean and to Adel Coleman of Graduate Attributes for her steadfast help and support. We would additionally like to extend our thanks to the new Dean of Doctoral studies at UCC, Dr. Orla Lynch for her support not only of the journal itself but of all the doctoral researchers at the University. This journal would not exist if it were not for the continued support of staff at the Boole Library. Our most sincere gratitude goes to Paul Davidson who, along with Aoife Coffey, Donna O’Doibhlin and Elizabeth Noonan, have continued to provide the key support and guidance to host the journal on Open Journal Systems (OJS) and secure DOIs for each published article. In addition, thank you to Joe Leogue for his availability to help expand the reach of the journal. A special thanks goes to the previous Boolean editorial board, especially Conor O’Driscoll and Stephen Murphy, for their support throughout the handoff to the new editorial team this past year. A huge thank you to our fellow peers for their submissions to this year’s issue; it was a delight to see the diverse and groundbreaking work being done throughout our University. And lastly, thank you dear reader for your curiosity and interest in The Boolean. We hope you enjoy discovering the fascinating world of research brought to you by the postgraduates of University College of Cork.

With thanks,

The Boolean Team 2023-24
