An undertaking such as The Boolean would not be possible without the support and generosity of many individuals across the university, and the editorial board wishes to acknowledge and thank them for their support in the production of the 8th edition of The Boolean.

Our thanks go to Professor Alan Kelly, for his support of The Boolean over its many editions. We would also like to thank Professor Orla Lynch for providing the introduction to this edition and for her tireless work in supporting both the journal and the PhD student experience here in UCC as Dean of Doctoral Studies.

UCC Library plays a fundamental role in the success of The Boolean, and the team wishes to thank Paul Davidson, Donna Ó'Doibhlin and all those in UCC Library who support the work of not only The Boolean, but all UCC run academic journals hosted on the Open Journal Systems (OJS) platform.

A special thanks also goes to members of the previous editorial teams, including Zoë Williams, Conor O'Driscoll and Stephen Murphy, and all those involved in producing past issues. A special thanks to our peers for taking the time to craft their submissions to this year's edition, the team had a fantastic time seeing the research that is unfolding within our university. Finally, we would also like to express our thanks to Aoife Coffey, Elizabeth Noonan, and Joe Leogue.

We sincerely hope you enjoy reading this issue of The Boolean.

With Thanks,

The Boolean Team 2025-26
